

online SUBMISSION

Online submission is fast and efficient and provides the following benefits:

Easily accessible anywhere in the world

- You can log in to submit your paper or revisions wherever you have access to the Internet.

Disks and hard copies are no longer required

- The online submission system provides an automatic conversion of source files to one PDF file – a stable document that is guaranteed to look the same on any computer worldwide.

Speeds up the peer-review and publication process

- Provides a faster, more efficient seamless link from submission through the editorial and peer-review process, right through to publication. This means that your work can be published sooner.

Your data is secure

- Data is held on our secure, central servers that are regularly backed up, so there is no need to worry about loss of data.

Track your paper

- View the progress of your paper during the review process.
- Track the status of your paper from acceptance to publication via your personalized homepage in the Author Gateway.

Online Submission via the Author Gateway authors.elsevier.com

author
GATEWAY

online
SUBMISSION

For further information and to submit your paper online, visit the journal page in the Author Gateway and follow the link for Online Submission. If this is your first online submission to your chosen journal you will be required to register. If you are a returning user simply login and begin your submission.

Need Some Help?

Elsevier have a dedicated author helpdesk to deal with any questions or problems you may have when using online submission, just contact authorsupport@elsevier.com